PROGRAM DETAILS

This program offers a unique opportunity that not only prepares the student to perform administrative tasks within a medical office environment but also gives them the tools and training necessary to become a Behavior Technician.

A Behavior Technician provides direct implementation of behavior-analytic services but does not design intervention or assessment plans. Students learn about evidence-based Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) principles and strategies for helping individuals with developmental behavior challenges.

Upon completion of the BT-1100 program, the student will be contacted by a MedCerts Advisor who will walk the student through the steps required to gain certification should the student choose to become an RBT. These steps include the completion of a background check and completing a Competency Assessment while "On the Job". As required by the BACB, the Competency Assessment must be performed while on the job, with live subjects under the supervision of a qualified assessor. While MedCerts can assist with locating employment, it is ultimately the student's responsibility.

A BCBA must oversee the competency assessment process. The competency assessment involves direct observation of the student demonstrating skills described in the RBT Initial Competency Assessment Form. Per the Behavior Analyst Certification Board guidelines, the student must perform three of the tasks in the Skill Acquisition and Behavior Reduction Section with a client. A client is defined as a direct recipient of behavior-analytic services.

- It is ultimately the student's responsibility to find employment where the Competency Assessment can be performed
- As the Competency Assessment is a required step in the Certification process, it is important to note that this requirement may prevent a graduate of the MedCerts program from becoming immediately certified post-program completion.

Once the graduate passes the competency assessment, they must show proof of a clear background check. MedCerts will share recommended websites/options to complete the background check process. Students who fail the background check will be unable to obtain the RBT credential.

The final step requires the student to apply to take the national RBT exam through the Behavior Analyst Certification Board.
